Earth's solid surface and clement climate may be in part due to a massive star in the birth environment of the Sun. Without its radioactive elements injected into the early solar system, our home planet could be a hostile ocean world covered in global ice sheets. This is the result of computer simulations of planet formation.

Science teachers Why can't many of them teach well

My worst science teacher experience was taking Earth Science. My teacher literally played a video every day about something new, so everyday for an hour and a half during that semester we watched videos such as "The Moon" and "The Sun". It was the most terrible class ever, and my teacher didn't know anything.
